QUARTER CENTURY ON POLICE FORCE

Seven Members Celebrate Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of Appointment With Dinner.

EACH MAN RECEIVES MEDAL

Commissioner Boykin, on Behalf of Board, Rewards Septet for Long and Valiant Service.

Recalling the days a quarter of a century ago, when they first went on the police force, seven members of the department, headed by Major Louis Werner, last night celebrated the anniversary with a dinner at the Jefferson Hotel. They had as their guests most of the members of the present Board of Police Commissioners, two of those who were on the board when they were elected, and the man who was Mayor of Richmond on October 1, 1888—Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Elyson. Mayor Ainslie and ex-Police Commissioner Frank Jacobs could not be present, and Dr. C. W. P. Brock, chief police surgeon, was absent because he was celebrating the anniversary of his wedding. Commissioner W. Douglas Gordon was also unable to attend.

The seven officers who were hosts at the banquet were Major Louis Werner, Sergeants J. E. Martin and E. J. Shumaker and Privates W. G. Kuhn, J. H. Huleher, C. J. Polke and J. M. Sale. Their guests were Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Elyson, Charles G. Bohrer and J. R. Welch, who were commissioners of police at the time, and Police Commissioners Weil, Goode, Bradley, Thomas, Boykin, Parker and McElroy. Captain E. Pollock and Police Surgeon O. H. Hopper.

Colonel H. M. Boykin acted as toastmaster. He told the story of the early days of the police force. He said that the members of the board of police commissioners in point of service, he knew the history of the police force from beginning to end, and told a story of each as he called on him for a speech.

After the first toast, when every one present felt better for a full stomach and a keen appetite for what was to follow, Colonel Boykin said he had something important to announce. Looking at Major Werner and the six men named about him, Colonel Boykin said that he never saw a finer looking set of men, and had never felt prouder of the fact that he was a member of the board. "We recognize your long and valiant service," he said, "and we wish to reward you in a manner that will be welcome both to you and to your families. We decided to give you a medal in token of our good wishes for the future and in remembrance of what you have done in the past. Major Werner, stand up."

Colonel Boykin presented a gold medal to the chief and a bronze medal to each of the remaining six. Having already been presented with a gold-mounted cane by the members of the anniversary, Major Werner was almost overcome. With a few simple words of thanks he took the medal and pinned it on his breast, and the others followed his example, each voicing his deep appreciation.

A few more courses relieved the stress, and just before the cigars and coffee Colonel Boykin rose to his feet again, calling for responses from every one present. He called upon Lieutenant-Governor Elyson first, remembering that he was Mayor of Richmond when the septet were elected to the force. Governor Elyson said that he had traveled through many countries, and at the time that he was Mayor he had searched into the records of foreign police departments. He had even talked to the London bobbies, representatives of the most noted metropolitan police force in the world, but even they, he said, did not surpass the police of Richmond.

"High Praise From All."

"You have not increased, but added to your efficiency," he said. He recalled the fact that the building operations of the last year of his term amounted to $750,000. In 1912 they

WALLER HOLLADAY, President.

SOUTH CAROLINIAN TO GET HIGH HONOR

J. P. Howie Slated for Presidency of Photographers' Association in Session Here.

CROWDS ENJOY EXHIBIT

Wonderful Work of Camera Shown, With New Display To-Night.

This will be get-away day for the Photographers' Association of Virginia and the Carolinas, which has been holding its sixteenth annual convention in the Richmond Hotel for the last two days. Beginning with the reports of special committees this morning and ending to-night with the election of officers the day's program is full of interesting topics.

The officers of the association for the ensuing year will be elected to-night. President Waller Holladay, of Durham, N. C., has let his friends know that he wishes to retire from office and prefers not to be a candidate for re-election. He has held almost every office in the association. In talking of his successor well-informed delegates say that First Vice-President J. P. Howie, of Columbus, S. C., will be promoted one grade. C. E. Cheyne, of Hampton, second vice-president, will become Mr. Howie's successor in the same way.

It is generally understood that Secretary T. C. Newman, of Concord, N. C., and Treasurer R. W. Hollinger, of Charlottesville, Va., will be re-elected without opposition. O. W. Cole, of Danville, secretary for Virginia, and M. W. Wheeler, Jr., of Greenville, S. C., secretary for South Carolina, are expected to be named to succeed themselves.

Several cities have put in applications for the honor of entertaining the camera artists next year, and the selection of the convention city for 1914 has been left in the hands of a committee, which will report at to-night's session. The annual banquet was given last night in the Richmond Hotel.

BRITON'S ORGANIZATION

First Meeting to Be Held at 227 West Broad Street To-Night.

Efforts are being made by the British residents of Richmond to organize an association of both an athletic and social nature, and a meeting of every Briton in the city is called for at 8 o'clock to-night at 227 West Broad Street.

There are many British people in Richmond and its suburbs, who, unlike others of foreign citizenship, have no organization. But, backed by Vice-Consul Arthur P. Wilmer, a number of British men have decided to associate themselves together and to urge every other man of the same nationality to join in the organization it is proposed to found.

The first effort will be to organize an association football club, for which there is a sufficient number of men who know the game to form a strong club. The social side of the organization will be brought out afterwards. Letters have been addressed to the Britishers in Richmond urging them to attend the meeting to-night. The organization, if founded, could, it is believed, be placed on a firm basis and work for the benefit of all the subjects of King George.

The two men who are back of the movement are S. Rogers and C. H. Abbott, 214 Northside Avenue, Highland Park.

MURPHY TO BE HOST TO STATE EDITORS

Virginia Press Association to Meet Here To-Morrow Morning.

MANY SOCIAL FEATURES

Luncheon at Country Club and Banquet Saturday Night Among Events.

Elaborate preparations are being made at Murphy's Hotel for the entertainment of the Virginia Press Association, the members of which will be the personal guests of Colonel John Murphy to-morrow and Saturday. Members will begin to arrive to-night and the entire organization will probably be here to-morrow morning. Colonel Murphy attended the annual meeting of the association at Mt. Elliott Springs, and there invited the body to hold an adjourned session in Richmond on the occasion of the opening of his new hotel. The new building was opened to guests on Monday, and the Virginia editors will be the first formal convention to meet in the new quarters. The banquet tendered by Colonel Murphy to the newspaper men on Saturday night will be the first formal dinner served in the new building.

Some business is to be transacted by the association, President C. B. Cooke having provided for two morning sessions, when several committees are to report and matters of interest to the newspaper profession in Virginia are to be discussed. To-morrow night the visiting newspaper men will be the guests of The Times-Dispatch at a Saturday night party, and the banquet on Saturday night will be the close of the meeting. The Chamber of Commerce tenders the visitors a luncheon at the Country Club of Virginia on Saturday afternoon.

Murphy Offers Prizes.

A feature of this meeting is the awarding of a special prize offered by Colonel Murphy for the three best articles by Virginia editors on the topic, "How to Build Up the Commonwealth." Colonel Murphy says that Virginia editors, especially in the smaller towns and rural districts, have been doing so much to build up the Commonwealth for years that some of them might have ideas that would be suggestive in other lines. So he has offered $75 in gold as the first prize, $50 in gold as the second, and $25 in gold as the third. Articles submitted in this competition are to be examined by a special committee composed of Governor Mann, Mayor Ainslie, President T. M. Carrington, of the Chamber of Commerce, President Alvin M. Smith, of the Business Men's Club, and Dr. H. R. McIlwaine, State Librarian. The committee had a meeting yesterday in the Mayor's office to consider some of the papers submitted.

A number of the Virginia editors expect to remain in Richmond for the opening of the Virginia State Fair on Monday.

the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, is among those interested in the scheme. This company recently acquired large holdings near Fort Lee. With an electric line to the city, it would be easy for the employees to make their homes in the vicinity of their work place, and this would be beneficial to the company. Others interested are Sheriff L. H. Kemp, W. J. Parrish, president of the Fulton Brick Works; Allen G. Collins, Arthur C. Nelson, Henry Rich, W. L. Brittle, C. E. Jones, T. H. Farrand, George Preston and W. E. Hunn.

The proposed line, according to the survey made by Sims Bailey, will form a junction either with the eastern terminus of the Virginia Railway and Power Company or the Richmond and Henric Railway Company, and will cross the Government Road 150 feet west of the National Cemetery. It will go through Montrose Heights, crossing Williamsburg Turnpike near the home of Sheriff Kemp. From there it will go down the Charles City Road to Fort Lee.

From Richmond to Fort Lee, the grades are easy and no engineering difficulties are anticipated. It is expected that the organization plans will be taken up within a few weeks.

Building Permits.

Building permits were issued yesterday as follows:

Maria Dudley, to build a one-story frame garage in the rear of 87 North Twenty-third Street, at a cost of $125.

Mrs. P. S. Burford, to build a one-story frame garage in the rear of 7 East Grace Street, at a cost of $225.

Maggie Dixon, to build a one-story metal storage shed in the rear of 87 North Twenty-third Street, at a cost of $125.

Miss Florence Gary, to repair frame dwelling at 231 Decatur Street, at a cost of $125.

Harrie Johnson, to repair frame dwelling at 231 Decatur Street, at a cost of $125.

Joseph Bryan estate, to erect a marquee over the entrance to the pool-room in the Lyric Theatre building, at a cost of $50.

Grand Jury Will Resume Probe.

The special grand jury of the Henric Circuit Court, which is investigating charges against Constable Joseph P. Tinsley, will resume its hearing this morning at 10 o'clock, when more than a dozen witnesses will be called. It is charged that Tinsley arrested a young man and permitted him to escape. The examination began on Monday morning, but was continued until important witnesses could be located.

WANT LINE BUILT OUT TO FORT LEE

Henrico Citizens May Build Electric Railway If Local Traction Companies Will Not.

Although no definite steps have been taken, a number of prominent Henrico citizens are considering the feasibility of constructing an electric railway line from Fulton to Fort Lee, a survey of a proposed route having already been made. A meeting of the promoters will be held within a few days.

The territory through which the proposed line will run is capable of great development. The distance to be covered is about four and a half miles, and more than 5,000 persons now live within a short distance of the route surveyed. A large part of the right of way, it is stated, has been granted, while a large sum has been subscribed by those interested.

It is proposed to form a stock company, and to construct the line on its resources, but it was stated last night by one of the promoters, that the decision of the Virginia Railway and Power Company or the Richmond and Henric Railway Company to build and operate a similar line would meet with approval, and would cause the present plans to be dropped.
